For those considering working with Bob Bishop:

'Hi, I'm Bob Bishop, a creative recruiter.' Cue the cringe and comeback line 'I'm fine in my current position.'

This was not the case with Bob, I called HIM. Upon my return to St. Louis I needed to tap into new agencies. I needed someone with experience, knowledge and connections within the St. Louis creative community. Bob met and exceeded my requirements.

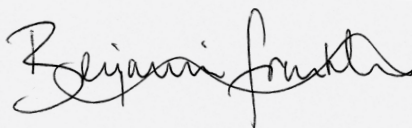

Through the years Bob and I have not only formed a strong working relationship, but also a friendship. He is a man I can trust beyond a professional level, with whom I can share ideas, and who will give me a sincere opinion.

There are a few traits that definitely set Bob apart from any other recruiter. Firstly, he speaks his mind with a refreshing air; he is upfront and honest which I sincerely appreciated. Secondly, Bob is not interested in placing a candidate just anywhere. He works tremendously hard to find a great fit and works equally hard for both parties. And finally, Bob's focus and determination in creating long lasting partnerships is what makes him a first class business partner—he is far more than a recruiter.

With that said, from a candidate's perspective, the positions Bob presents to you will be the right fit for your personality and skill set.

From a client's perspective, the candidates Bob brings to you will be first class, handpicked for your company.

Sincerely,

Benjamin Franklin
